General Gardield's Circumstances.

Dr. J. P. Robison, the confidential business adviser of General Garfield, has given the Cleveland (O.) Leader a statement of the General's financial condition. All of his worldly possessions consist of a house in Washington, which cost him $11,000, for which at the time be purchased it be had to run in debt, and his farm "Lawnfield," in Mentor, O., consisting of one hundred and fifty acres, costing him about $12,000. In addition to this he put about $12,000. In addition to this he put about $4,500 in improvements on his house and about $1,500 in stocking the farm. The total value of this property foots up about $29,000. From this should be deducted his debts, amounting to $5,000, leaving him possessed of about $24,000.

offered by the Association concludes next Saturday evening, and this meeting was called for the purpose of considering the advisability of a resumption. There was a very full attendance, 20 mills having their personal represented by proxy. Although no definite action was taken, the meeting was a very interesting one from the interchange of views upon
THE OUTLOOK,
and the expression of sentiment that was given. The situation was calmly talked over for some hours, after which it was decided that as the regular meeting

The situation was calmly talked over for some hours, after which it was decided that as the regular meeting of the Association is to be held on next Wednesday it would be injudicious to decide until then. From the sentiment of the manufacturers which cropped out in the meeting yesterday, as the matter is represented to our reporters by some of the members of the Association, it seems almost certain that market is stiffening up, there are scarcely any stocks on hand, and the feeling is that card prices can be obtained. The reports from the various sections that were represented at the meeting showed that the stocks everywhere were barren, and that while jorbers were unwilling to purchase, in the hope of still further reduction, yet that the card of the Iron Association, which had not been maintained for some time, was now quite closely adhered to in most localities, and while there was no immediate prospect of an advance the fact that the card rates could be obtained was of itself infusing new life into the market. It seemed to be the general feeting that no reduction would be made in the card rate at the meeting next week, but that on the contrary a further suspension—It necessary to convince the people that the Association means business—would be ordered. would be ordered.

A Compliment to General Arthur. NEW YORK, July 7. The following correspondence explains

Chester A. Arthur:

Dean Sir: In common with all true Republicans we rejoice at the happy issue of the earnest struckle in the Chicago Convention. We hall the general approval of its work as an auspicious omen, and go forward confidently to the labors of the canvass. We feel an especial and personal gratification in the fact that the ticket selected at Chicago bears your name. Your faithfulness to public duttes, your firmness and sagacity in political affairs, so well understood by your fellow-citizens in this State, have now met with national recognition, and earned for you this well-deserved honor.

gathering of distinguished friends (?) of American labor, known as the Cincinnati convention. Consider well this "on paper" sentiment of that labor cherishing labor protecting (?) party known as Democracy, and then review the course of that party for the last twenty-five years and see how its past actions accord with the above declaration. I think you will be quite astonished. But this should not necessarily follow when you consider that the votes of the dear laborer are sadly pased at this fall to place in power this. that party for the last twenty-five years and see how its past actions accord with the above declaration. I think you will be quite astonished. But this abould not necessarily follow when you consider that the votes of the dear laborer are sadly needed this fall to place in power this wonderfully consistent (1) party which has done, and sacrificed so much for the toiling millions of our land.

They wish us to forget the times when, in the Democratic strongholds (the solid South) workingmen were "poor white trash." They wish us to forget the time when the white laboring man of the South was looked upon as lower than the South) workingmen were "poor white trash." They wish us to forget the time when the white laboring man of the South was looked upon as lower than the blackest and most ignorant plantation hand by those very men who now wish o receive the support of that same laboring man.

Yes, they wish these facts forgotten long mough to enable them once more to grasp the reigns of government, and then the laboring man will be left to take care of himself and make the best he can out the care of the second second

THE SHUT DOWN WILL CONTINUE,

while jobbers were unwilling to purchase, in the hope of still further reduction, yet the disrespect the leaders of the Democracy feel for the working class it is supplied by the nomination of Gen. Hancock, aman who was taken when a boy from the that the card of the Iron Association, which had not been maintained for some man's son could aspire to under Demoman's son could aspire to under Demoman's son could aspire to under Demo-or revolver; a man whose education has fitted him to judge of public questions from a military stand-point only; a man to whom his fellow men appear as no more than legitimate food for gunpowder, and as useful machines in throwing up eu-any attention to laboring men, on ques-tions of labor and capital? I think not. And for the simple reason that he has not had that training which would enable him portance to the manufacturing and transporting interests of our country.

Laying aside the question of his ignorance on these matters, and considering only the importance that would be brought to bear on him by the South once he occupied the Presidential chair, we are forced to admit that the prosperity of all the northern industries would be sadly impaired, if not totally destroyed by any such mistoriane as the election of a man whose sympathies must necessarily be with the South. Gen. Hancock, as a soldier, is deserving of all praise, but the ability to handle an army, on the field of battle is no indication of ability or even willingness to forward the interests of the working classes of our Nation.

The backing means the Nasth will come.

The laboring men of the North will com mit the greatest mistake of their lives if they permit themselves to be hoodwinked by the insincere cry of "Protection to La-bor," and thus lend themselves as step-ping-stones by which the Democracy may reach a power which, when gained, will be used to forward Southern interests ex-cinsively.

sensible of the kindness which has prompted both the invitation itself and the flattering assurances of confidence and regard by which it is accompanied.

If circumstances permitted, I should be greatly pleased to accept your proffered hospitality, and for that purpose no more congenial soot could have been selected than the headquarters of the Union League Club Association, so widely famed for its patriolic zeal and energy, and so efficient in support of the principals and policy of the Republican party.

I am constrained, however, from considerations of a private nature, which are known to many of you, to decline your invitation. Again assuring you, gentlemen, of the pleasure with which I have received your congratulations upon my nomination, I have the honor to be your obedient servant. Chester A. Arthur.

THE WORKINGRAN'S POLITICS.

The Record of the Democratic Party as the Friend of Labor.

Editors Intelligencer.

The Serman and Harcock.

The German, though possessed of courage and all other solderly qualities, and always ready to take up arms in what he setems a good cause, is extremely average to military methods and such rule, in the land of their birth, they migrated hither in the hope and expectation, that they and their posterity would never be subject to the conscription in time of peace, and would forever be free from the domination of military rule.

It was this deep seated and ineradicable sentiment among German Republican voters that caused the rejection of. Gen Grant Chicago. The same sentiment is equally strong in the breast of the German Democratic voter; and that sentiment, though not noisy and demonstrative, will make itself felt at the approaching elections.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., July 7.

Garfield on Hancock.

General Garfield had an opinion Hancock and his reconstruction acts in 1868, which probably has not been changed by time. In a speech delivered in Congress Jan. 17, 1868, Gen. Garfield said:

said:

We see him issuing a general order, in which he declares that the civil. should not give way before the military. We hear him declaring that he finds nothing in the laws of Lousians and Texas to warrant his interference in the civil administration of those states. It is not for him to say which should be first, the civil or the military, in that Rebel community. It is not for him to search the defunct laws of Lousians and Texas for a guide to his conduct. It is for him to execut the laws which he was sent there to administer. It was for him to aid in building up civil Governments, rother than preparing himself to be the Presidential candidate of that party which gave him no sympathy when he was gallantly fighting the battles of the country. no sympathy when he battles of the country.
